

Urban farming and education challenges - Volunteering in Prague 2022

Volunteering period – max. 10 months March 2022 - 31.12.2022

What to expect

Volunteers will get an opportunity to gain new experiences in the topics of urban eco gardening, food-growing and other craftsmanship and innovative methods of education outside based on intuitive pedagogy, etc. Besides experiencing sustainable farming and innovative education of youth the volunteers will have an opportunity to experience the workflow of a nonprofit organization that is governed in a non-hierarchical and network based structure where there is high freedom and, at the same time, responsibility of all employees is shared equally.

One can also expect involvement in the collective of friendly people with strong inclination towards nature and the environment.

What is the content of volunteer work:

- Assistant to the guide in the forest kindergarten Kuchyňka is going to assist with the education of pre-elementary kids in the garden and yurt on the Kuchyňka city farm, helps with preparation of the programme and daily routine.
- Assistant to the gardener in the community garden Kuchyňka, is going to assist with the gardening and technical works in the garden Kuchyňka, vegetable growing, building of the premises and animal husbandry.

What type of volunteers do we seek

We seek volunteers with an inclination towards environment and agriculture, agroecology, local food chains, food cooperatives, community building in local food systems, however it is not a prerequisite of a participant. We can accept people with no experience in this field.

We seek someone who is open to new relationships with people and keen on learning new approaches and subjects. We seek volunteers with different backgrounds that might enhance the issues mentioned above with new, different perspectives.

Volunteers hosted by our organization should be interested in developing themselves and learning new approaches in one of the following fields: environment-friendly farming and craftsmanship, children education, marketing communication and public relations. They should be interested in learning to gain basic organizational skills, good communication practice and methods of self-management. The target of our organization is to help volunteers to unlock their potentials and find their place in the world.

How to apply

Please send your CV and a motivation letter to our email address: volunteers@asociaceampi.cz and we will contact you soon.
